Research Support Fund 2017-2018

What is the Research Support Fund Program?

The Research Support Fund (RSF) program is funded by the Government of Canada to assist Canadian post-secondary institutions with the costs associated with managing their research enterprise and helping universities and colleges to maintain a world-class research environment. This permanent program provides Canadian universities and colleges with an annual grant to help pay for a portion of their indirect costs of research. See <http://www.rsf-fsr.gc.ca/home> for more information about the program.

What are the Indirect Costs of Research?

The term “indirect costs” refers to the central and departmental administrative costs that institutions incur to support research which are not attributable to specific research projects. In other words, the costs institutions must cover to allow research activities to take place. Indirect costs can be divided into five general categories.

How is the Research Support Fund Calculated?

Grants are based on funding that institutions have received from the three federal granting agencies in the three years preceding the grant cycle.

Average revenues from CIHR, NSERC & SSHRC	Funding from Research Support Fund
First $100,000	80%
Next $900,000	50%
Next $6 million	40%

This formula provides higher rates of funding for the institutions that receive the least amount of money from the federal research granting agencies. In this way, the Research Support Fund helps smaller universities and colleges provide adequate support to their research programs and strengthen their research capacity.
