OPEN STREAM CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

Stream Convenors:

Stefanie Ruel

Mary Beth Doucette

Stephanie Gilbert

Bishakha Mazumdar

Tammy Bernasky

Mary Jane Morrison

Gauri Sood

Native Women's Association of Canada

Launched in 1994, Gender, Work and Organization was the first journal to provide an arena dedicated to debate and analysis of gender relations, the organisation of gender and the gendering of organisations. The Gender, Work and Organization (GWO) conference provides an international forum for continuing those debates and analysis of historical and contemporary issues affecting gender studies at work, in organising work, and in jobs.

The Executive Organizing Committee invites abstracts for the GWO open stream. If your research does not fit neatly into one of the approved and posted streams but does fit within the broad mandate of GWO, this open stream is an opportunity to submit your work for peer review and to be considered for presentation at the conference. Note that this stream will be held onsite.

Abstracts of approximately 500 words (excluding references) must be submitted to the GWO 2024 submission system hosted by FourWaves. The link is available on the GWO conference 2024 website as of November 6th, 2023. No independent abstract submissions (i.e., an abstract submitted to someone's personal email) will be considered for acceptance or presentation at the conference. Note that stream convenors will be conducting a blind review process and redirecting abstracts to the GWO organizing committee for consideration in the open stream if and when appropriate. The abstract should not have any author details to ensure this blind review process. Abstract formatting specifics are available in the submission system. Abstracts are due by December 22nd, 2023, with decisions on acceptance to be made by stream convenors by the end of January 2024. No extensions to this deadline will be possible as some participants will need time and justification documents to secure visas to attend the conference onsite.
